63 Watched it in person. What was a really bad sign is there were NO antifag or burn loot murder counter-protesters anywhere. Zero.

I could feel the setup coming. As soon as I heard "Trump protestoes" had breached the building I had a feeling the antifags were leading the charge.

Not saying MAGA patriots weren't in the building. We were all ready to do whatever had to be done. Just waiting from Trump to say the word.

43 Yep. When me and my buddy were standing in front of the Washington monument, listening to President Trump, we started really looking at people around us. We identified multiple sn groups of people scattered all over as for sure antifa fags. They just have that look, you l Plus, you might see one here and there that had an American flag as a prop, but none of these that they won't let the public see. I guarantee that there's too many anti that could be identified..

-20 ▼ I watched it live when Q-worshipping brainwashed cult member retards broke and entered through the windows.

Q-tards aborted Ted Cruz's emergency 10-day audit, and obliterated Trump's last chance at being inaugurated in 2021.

Q-tards selfishly cared more about taking selfies and getting likes on Facebook and Twitter, than they cared about keeping Trump in office.

Trump said to peacefully protest, NOT to break into the Capitol.

Q-tards serve and trust their fake "plan," and fake leaders like L.[oser] Lin Wood, not Trump, and now they have turned on Trump.

Trump is right to ignore and look down on the Q-tards who broke into the Capitol.

Q-tards screwed Trump.

<https://i.ibb.co/TKSKVZw/qtardselfie.jpg>

FACT: BABBITT FOLLOWED Q. Q-TARDS, ANTIFA & BLM ALL BROKE INTO THE CAPITOL. IF THE PEOPLE WHO BROKE IN/TRESPASSED WERE "ALL ANTIFA," THEN NONE OF THEM WERE PATRIOTS. Q-TARD DENIERS ARE CALLING BABBITT ANTIFA. USE YOUR BRAIN, PEOPLE.

▼ Agreed. There was a mix for sure. Hands down a mix of Trump supporters, and some intentional agitators, like John Sullivan, who pre planned getting into the capitol, had his CNN contributing lady with him, and encouraged others to destroy the building and light it on fire.

This isn't to say Trump supporters weren't destructive either.

99.9% of people were peaceful, but maybe 0.01% were not, and to pretend many w
Trump supporters would be a lie. ✓

I do think they wanted people to get inside. I mean, c'mon, they knew weeks ahead of the millions descending on DC, and they want us to think angry Americans could've just stormed inside and gotten away with anything?

I don't buy it myself. I think it was partly planned, partly angry patriots being followers.

A mix.

Always misdirect. Be ambivalent, wise, poetic, symbolic.

Glowfags will take the bait.

The prepared statements, the fake actors, the lies caught on video, the agitprop, the CIA botchfest the months of fences, the pointless FBI honeypot setups nobody took they exposed themselves.

Congress shot at the elderly. They called grandmothers, disabled war vets, and little kids "terrorists" and will be sued as soon as their kangaroo courts are exposed to the knowledge of the general public.

It's OVER for them. China had to lockdown. They showed their hand early.

▼ This was after being disappointed by the apparent normalcy of the rallyers watching Trump's speech (I was expecting a lot more people to [peacefully] disobey DC's gun laws), and before the "insurrectionists" were so easily repelled from the Capitol.

▼ Ok I must be off a little bit, that day was so insane I was in and out of the washroom with stomach problems here in the CA-NA-DA.

I was watching Let's be Frank and Salty Cracker's 6-screen splits and heard the gunshot on one, and I honestly blend so many of those scenes together to the point that parts of that day are a blur even while not watching the streamers.

My family had on the Fox BS and we were inbetween my comp and Fox for the entire day, we were watching Trump talk on TV and already watching the riot gear come out and the alleged antifa-pussies making their move before he even finished his speech. So poorly planned in the day of phone cameras and video evidence. The Left is brazen, but luckily their minions are fools and truth is leaking daily.

▼ Yes there was a 6 screen split going on, Salty was covering one set of streams and I had something else open. That's crazy that you were there, mad respect for peacefully and patriotically defending the country from idiot bill-writers. I saw the crowd at the bottom of the stars all jump and react to the sound of the shot on one screen. And at one point, one of the livestreams was very close to the doorway and stair landing where the murderer must have been, so Salty cut that feed I believe saying he didn't know what happened and didn't want to broadcast something morbid.

I had no clue what was really going on and I don't even remember when the official news came out about Ashli I just remembered thinking that something nefarious had just happened.

In reality, antifa had a presence but they were there as agitators - not the primary occupants of the building.

Mostly didn't break in, were waved in.

▼ I watched it live and then looked at hours of video the next couple of days after. Indeed the majority of entering looked peaceful and was often aided by the cops.

But there are plenty of clips of people outside breaking in. Breaking windows, battering police with poles and big sticks. Lots of those people were dressed in black with helmets. Or were outfitted in Trump/USA clothing that looked too new and awkward on them, if you know what I mean. And that clip of the woman sticking her head in a broken window speaking to a group inside "If you want to take this building...". Looked seriously pre-planned.

Those people, the ones breaking in, were 1. Aunt Tiffa and, possibly 2. MAGA people who had convinced themselves that 1/6 was a movie and they should go ultra violent to get their point across. I forgive neither for their sins of that day. Breaking windows and doors, assaulting police, to get into the capitol was nauseating to see. Uncalled for.

But I also watched good patriots trying to stop them, whether it was #1 or #2. Shouted them down, pulled them off window ledges, took their sticks away. That made me proud. Those people, who tried to stop the breaking of things, and those that were waved in to quietly walk through the capitol, not thinking they were doing anything wrong, those are my people, my countrymen, my fellow patriots. God bless them.

12 Julie Kelly has done a remarkable job covering 1/6, searching and asking for answers. It seems like she is one of the few journalists still trying.

7 Yeah. I've liked her for a while, and she's earning big respect with this. So many good journalists still are not touching it. Credit to Tucker too for hosting her in prime time. I hope millions will get to see all the little old ladies with flags and the velvet-rope gangs.

8 ▼ People have a right to peaceably assemble.

The people were peaceable. Called out the actors and paid agitators/infiltrators.

Congress COMPLETELY BETRAYED EVERY GRIEVANCE OF THE PEOPLE.

Called us terrorists - unafraid of even being sued!!

Unmasked.

Congress is theater. Everybody betrayed America. The people need to reassert control of our lives.

the people in jail were singing and happy.

the light and happiness we carry is what "identifies" us.

Wise as serpents. Harmless as doves.

Despite being screwed over by the entire chain of command of "local" "authorities", God made things work out for people who were dropped off, no phone, no wallet, in the cold.

Have faith!

4 On January 6th, Some dude with a pink gas mask tapped my shoulder and tried to point something out to me. I couldn't hear him, but he was pointing towards the guy with the viking hat and the blue face paint.

I think that he mistook me for one of his Antifa friends (I'm very skinny and often look generally unhealthy, I've been working on that). That moment, Along with the total lack of opposition, a flip in my brain switched "Were all being set up".

But why would Trump lead his people, people that love and trust him, into a bunch of legal nightmares? Why didn't he pardon anybody that got in trouble from the 6th? Was he actually banned from social media WAY BEFORE we think he was??? That one video of him looked like a badly made deepfake.....

I'm not trying to get all conspiratorial, it's just that all of these questions that we likely wont ever get answers to ..... well they eat away at me

▼ Yes, they are talking about first ammendment rights to peaceful protest, but this is why the protesters are in the building in the first place.
